Introduction

This Gryphon Trust Data Retention Schedule has been drawn up to give guidelines on how long to keep records created and maintained by schools within The Gryphon Trust in the course of their business and how those records should be disposed of at the end of their administrative life. Records may be held in any format, including paper, electronic and audio visual.

Disposing of records at the right time in accordance with The Gryphon Trust Data Protection Policy will help to ensure schools meet recordkeeping requirements set out in the General Data Protection Regulation, The Freedom of Information Act and the upcoming UK Data Protection Bill.

The Schedule

The schedule is arranged by type of record. The 'retention period' specifies how long the record should be kept and the 'final action' describes how they should be disposed of. The column 'Personal Data?' indicates whether records contain personal data and will be subject to the General Data Protection Regulation and will be required to be stored securely, and safe from unauthorized access.

Reaching the end of a retention period

Destroy

Where records have been identified for destruction, they should be disposed of in an appropriate way:

- All paper records containing personal information, or sensitive policy information, should be disposed of as confidential waste.
- All confidential electronic records should be deleted securely from electronic systems, including databases and backups.
- Non-confidential records should be bundled up and disposed of to a waste paper merchant, or recycled in other appropriate ways.

Review

Records are marked for review in cases where there is no longer a statutory or financial requirement for retention but where the decision to destroy is not clear cut.

Assess the record's continuing administrative or historical worth. Consider keeping files that relate to:

- Major events or important developments in the life of the school
- Major policies and / or long-term strategies
- Claims (or possible claims) for compensation

You will likely dispose of:

- Routine papers and correspondence
- Papers that refer to events of short-term relevance and minor interest.

Records of historical value which are no longer required in school can be offered to Hampshire Archives and Local Studies (HALS) as a permanent addition to the county's archives. HALS are happy to advise on the possible historical value of records.
